Ten Cents

The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

There's money in Tuesday's election — yours. The first four propositions on the ballot — A, B, C and D are bond issue propositions.

There is no doubt about the terrible need for the things the money will go for, so we urge "yes" votes for two reasons. You should not vote against the issues simply because your taxes are already high. Your taxes represent waste of your money by a profligate government sponsoring kinky programs which include welfare giveaways, myriad unnecessary bureaus with highly paid executives coming out of the cracks. These bureaus have too many people performing unnecessary chores but the County's population and problems keep growing, too. So facilities must be provided for the growing army of employees as well as for the growing number of troubled souls to whom the worker must administer.

You should not vote against it because it will have to come one way or another. The other way is for short-term pay-as-you-go financing which will add a third to the cost. The short-term way will add $30 million to the $86 million bond issue. The need for the things the bond money will buy is more grave than the ballot argument indicates with only a slightly less need for Prop. D — about which we shall write in the paragraphs to follow.

The Propositions are these:

A — Three jail-court complexes are to be built in the north, south and east parts of the county: the present courthouse will be enlarged, and additional honor and rehabilitation facilities will be provided. Cost: $61 million.

B — Boys' rehabilitation facility and another Juvenile Hall will be built. The present Hall will be enlarged. Cost: $12 million.

C — County Administration and Operation Centers will be enlarged and an animal shelter would be built in South Bay. Cost: $6.4 million.

D — is for acquiring purchase options, and leases on open space preserves to preserve the environment. This could be deferred but the cost would certainly be higher as time passes. In 1970 the same proposition failed narrowly. It got a 64 per cent vote. Bond issues need 66 2/3%.

Propositions E, G, H, J and K are almost routine and the ballot arguments explain them fully. An exception is H. A "no" vote is urged because its approval would replace the non-political Board of Health of the "healthiest county in the United States" with a politically appointed bureau.

But watch out for Proposition F. This must carry your "no" vote. F would make the elected offices of Recorder, Tax Collector and Treasurer appointive by the Board of Supervisors instead of elected by the people. The Assessor's office isn't included, but certainly it would be eventually. While the present assessor is known to be an honest and reasonable man, who would want to give up his voter's right of complaining about the increased assessed valuation of his property?

Of course you can't effectively do that with an appointive head. As appointees, they become — for practical purposes — nameless and faceless workers. After what happened to our assessed valuation this year, who would want to complain to an amoeba? The new values may be justified but we've got to keep this posts elective so that the key people will be more responsive to the people and pass the complaints along to the lawmakers.

When citizens lose their control in electing key department heads, both interest and communications will dry up. Your vote of dissatisfaction would be diluted to 20 per cent because each of the five supervisors is responsive to only 20 per cent of the total populace.

Reducing the public's right to be heard can best be accomplished by robbing them of their voting capability. This encourages the return to old time "bossism."

The most basic principal of the U. S. Constitution and the S.D. County Charter is the time-honored privilege granted to citizens to elect their highest government officials. This fundamental right of democratic process must be zealously protected by the electorate.

Therefore, Proposition F and potential bossism must be rejected so that we can elect the treasurer, the recorder, and the recorder what we think when we are dissatisfied. And this year, especially the assessor.

Dog-Gone Shame

Percy's Holiday Spoiled By Too Much Schooling

It was a long, holiday weekend for Percy.

Percy is the pet dog of the Robert Metcalf family who lives at 7625 North ave. in Lemon Grove. Three of the Metcalf youngsters attend Golden Avenue school.

Friday, during the early morning rain, the youngsters rode to school in the family auto. Percy went along to keep company with Donald, 6; Charles, 7, and Alma, 9. Percy jumped from the auto when the kids got to school and hid until the auto left. Then he took up his post near the school building entrance and whined.

Principal Ilsa Hanning phoned the Metcalf home but Papa Metcalf had the auto at work. Mother Metcalf told Mrs. Hanning that Percy would follow the youngsters home after school. Percy was put in a supply closet for safe-keeping until after school.

But Donald, Charles and Alma burst out of school for the freedom of home as soon as the final buzzer sounded — forgetting Percy. School officials called again but Mama Metcalf was shopping and one of the youngsters took the call.

It was Memorial Day Monday before the youngsters developed enough courage to confess. They had forgotten.

Because schools were closed Papa Metcalf called the fire department, the sheriff's office, the animal shelter and others in frantic haste. They went to school and talked to Percy through the locked door. They poured water under the door so Percy's thirst would be quenched.

Sgt. William Bradley was trying, too. He recalled that an officer, formerly assigned to Lemon Grove, kept a list of home numbers of school custodians. Sgt. Bradley reached him at home — it was his day off — but he still had his list of numbers.

Sgt. Bradley then reached Jerry Heath, Lemon Grove School District's Custodial supervisor who is keeper of the keys. Percy was freed from his prison. He was still frisky.

He dashed out of the closet and jumped in the family car. It wasn't likely he'd leave it in a strange place again.

$40 Damage Caused By Firebombing

Slight damage was caused to a building in the 7800 block of Golden ave. last week when two "Molotov cocktails" were hurled against the rear of the building late last Tuesday night.

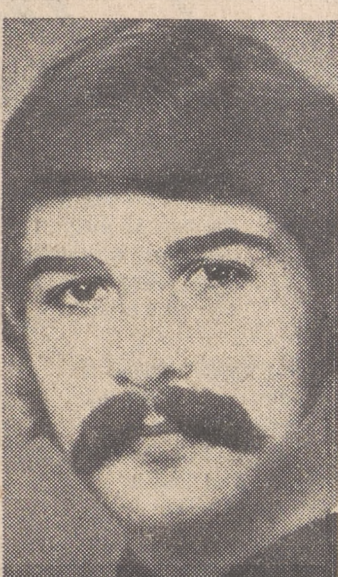

According to reports from Sheriff's Department, Arthur Nicodemus, of 7856 Golden ave., Lemon Grove, who lives next door to the scene of the crime, reported a fire to the Lemon Grove Fire Department shortly before 10 p.m.

Nicodemus told deputies he heard noises outside his apartment, and when he went to his window to see what was going on, saw a bright orange flash followed by flames.

He added that he went outside to investigate, but saw nobody around and went back in and called the fire department.

Another witness, James Barron, a janitor in the building, said he was inside the building but saw and heard nothing until the fire department arrived.

Two broken beer bottles were found near the building, partially burned. Damage was estimated to be about forty dollars, according to a spokesman for the fire department.

Hardison's Telespanish

By JAMES HARDISON

In the "peluqueria" (barber shop) one may find the need of several words like "la barba" (the beard), "las patillas" (the sideburns), "el bigote" (the mustache), and "el pelo" (the hair). "El copete" (fore locks), "en los lados" (on the sides), "de arriba" (on the top), and "de atras" (from behind), will also help identify locations for cutting. Most of the actions that the "peluquero" (barber) takes may be described with the verbs "cortar" (to cut), "lavar" (to wash), "peinar" (to comb) and "cepillar" (to brush). We may ask for "un corta de pelo" (a hair cut) and specify "No corte mucho del copete." (Don't cut too much off of the fore locks.) or we may say "No corte mucho de atras." for "Don't cut too much off of the back side."

"Favor de" (favor of) may precede each of the desired actions in forming a request. To ask for a haircut we may simply say "Favor de cortarme el pelo." (Please cut my hair.) We might also wish to say "Favor de lavarme el pelo." If we want to express "Please wash my hair."

"Afeitarse" (to shave) might also be used in barber-shop conversation. If you wish to have a shave, you may say "Favor de afeitarme." for "Please shave me." In the infinitive case the suffix "se" is attached to the verb "afeitar" resulting in "afeitarse" which literally means "to shave oneself." In another case "me" may be added as a suffix to construct "afeitarme" with the literal meaning "to shave me."

Expressions listed below might prove helpful in a "peluqueria" (barber shop) where a sign in the window says "Se Habla Espanol" (Spanish is spoken). The written phonetic guide following each phrase may serve as an aid in pronouncing the complete expression. Also a recorded voice will lead you in saying the phrases when you dial 276-2762 on your telephone.

IMPORTANT PHRASES:

Say "Favor de cortarme el pelo." (fah-VOHR deh kohr-TAHR-meh ehl PEH-loh) for "Please cut my hair." Say "No afeite las patillas." (noh ah-FEH-ee-teh lahs pah-TTE-yahs) for "Don't shave the sideburns."

USEFUL PHRASES:

Say "Deje el copete." (DEH-heh ehl koh-PEH-teh) for "Leave the fore locks." Say "Deje el bigote." (DEH-heh ehl bee-GOH-teh) for "Leave the mustache."

OTHER PHRASES:

Say "Corte un poco atras." (KOH-tee-oon POH-koh ah-TRAHS) for "Cut a little on the back." Say "Corte mas en los lados." (KOH-tee mahs ehn lohs LAH-dohs) for "Cut more on the sides."

LETTERS

Dear Editor:

Another increase in postal rates has just been announced.

Believe it or not, a postage stamp cost $5 Billion at the height of the German inflation!

Unless the government halts the reckless spending of dollars over and above income (deficit financing) with money the government has to borrow, an American postage stamp may well cost us $5 Billion. Such spending also raises our taxes.

Foreign Aid is a good example of overspending. You can help by writing your Senators and Representatives.

Dear Editor:

Our state and local educational systems have many dedicated sincere members who strive for the betterment of our systems.

But let us be wary of those individuals within the public education system who try to use or subvert the system's aims and goals. Let's not allow them to use our public education system to further their personal desires and objectives. Individuals are trying and some are succeeding in their efforts to subvert our public educational system to further their undesirable objectives.

One cannot help but wonder about all the poses, some tragic, some good, taken in new legislation in the name of "better education."

Sincerely, Charles O. Barnett Santee, CA

Dear Editor:

I am sick of going to a fine parade and seeing no one saluting or standing when the flag passed by.

I am also too sick to replace a flag that has flown my flag pole through three wars and was stolen last winter.

Maybe the one who took it really needed it to fly and not destroy.

Dear Editor:

Passing on the timely remarks of Pat Michaels was a very commendable act. Some of the court decisions make about as much sense as releasing a rattlesnake because he was caught in a rat trap.

We need more columns like "The Dimmer View."

...about your Social Security

The Lemon Grove Review and Spring Valley Bulletin present this question and answer column about the Social Security program as a public service to our readers. The questions are those most frequently asked about Social Security. The answers are provided by Sumio Oto, El Cajon Social Security Office Manager.

Q. I know social security helps older people, but what about young workers like me? What's in it for us? I'm 25 and see nothing ahead but contributions until I'm 65.

A. Social Security provides a great deal of protection for you and other young workers long before you reach retirement age. You, and your family, are protected against loss of income resulting from disability or death.

Q. If I decide to work for another year or two beyond my 65th birthday must I wait until I stop work to be eligible for Medicare coverage?

A. No. You become eligible for Medicare as soon as you become 65, you should contact your social security office two or three months before your 65th birthday.

Q. I get social security widow's benefits. I never worked myself. Will my survivors get a lump-sum payment when I pass away?

A. No. The lump-sum payment is only made after the worker's death, and the worker must have credit for a certain amount of work under social security.

Q. I get social security benefits because of my disability. Is there a limit on how long I can get checks?

A. Your benefits will continue as long as you are disabled or until you are 65. At 65, your disability benefits will be changed to retirement benefits. However, the amount of your payments will not change.

Q. I read that Congress passed the Federal Coal Mine and Safety Act. Are any of my social security contributions going toward paying for the "black lung" benefits?

A. No. These benefits are paid out of general revenue. They are not social security benefits, although the Social Security Administration will administer the program through 1972. After that, the Labor Department will be responsible for the program.

Q. My husband and I receive a single social security check with both our names on it. Can we receive separate checks?

A. Yes. Checks for married couples usually are combined to reduce administrative costs and to save check cashing fees. But, if you'd rather get separate checks, just send a written request, signed by you or your husband, to your social security office. No reason is required.

For further information regarding the Social Security Law, contact or write the Social Security Office, 570 North Second st., El Cajon, California 92021. The office is open from 9:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The telephone number is 442-0851.

AWARD WINNERS — Craig Lake, left, Mount Miguel High School Key Club advisor and co-owner of Del-Ron's in Lemon Grove, admires his trophy along with Linc Such, Mr. Miguel Key Club president. Both received awards at a joint meeting of Key Clubs and Kiwanis Clubs in Division II held May 13 at the Chula Vista Country Club. Lake, who is also secretary of the Lemon Grove Kiwanis Club, was honored as the division's best Key Club President.

Sports Awards Given At Santa Sophia Hall

Santa Sophia Academy's Athletic Association concluded its year of team sports last Thursday evening with a "Sports Award Night" in the parish hall in Spring Valley.

Frank Kern, vice-president and program chairman, opened the program and drew attention to the fact that Santa Sophia had three first-place teams this year: varsity basketball, coached by Fern Paredes, was undefeated champion in its league; j.v. basketball, coached by Joe Howard and Steve Smith, was undefeated champion, and the baseball team, managed and coached by Fern Paredes was co-champ in its league.

He also noted that awards were being presented to 58 students, which represented 60% of those eligible to compete in team sports.

Ralph Smith, president, then greeted the parents and young athletes, giving a short review of the year's activities and accomplishments.

Kern presented the featured speaker of the evening, Calvin Murphy of the San Diego Rockets, who discussed the history and hopeful future of the San Diego Rockets and held a lengthy question-and-answer period which was enthusiastically entered into by both students and parents. The two basketball teams were presented their letters and awards by Murphy.

Second speaker of the evening was Larry Shepard, football coach at St. Augustine High School. He mentioned that St. Augustine stressed discipline and loyalty in its sports program. He then presented the letters and awards to the football team.

Awards to the baseball team were presented by coach Fern Paredes; girls' Volleyball team by coaches Audrey Wright and Bernice Mascari; girls' volleyball-tennis by coach Shirley Steeber; and to the cheerleaders by coach Buzzie Minor.

NEW LEADER — Parker B. Shumate, a member of the Lemon Grove Fire District Board of Directors, wins a handshake from L.G. Ass't. Fire Chief Fred Dixon. The occasion is the installation in which Shumate becomes the president of the L.G. Lions Club as President Dixon retires from the post. Dixon will not be without high title long, however. He assumes the position of L.G. Fire Chief in July.

Nearly 100 persons participated in the installation ceremonies at Carlton Oaks Saturday evening. At the affair, which was a dinner-dance, John Farley, a long-time Lion, was named Lion of the Year for service to his club.

Thomas J. Clark, 92 year old resident of La Mesa, has instituted a campaign to install greater devotion and respect for the American flag.

"Neighbor, I'm sick and tired of the present attitude that many people have toward the flag of the greatest country in the world and I want everyone to know where I stand," Clark said.

He has erected a sixteen-foot-high flag pole made of two inch pipe set in concrete and is flying Old Glory over his rented home.

The public has been invited to attend a dedication ceremony which will take place June 13, at 8140 Lemon ave., La Mesa, at 1:30 p.m., when a flag which has flown over the Capitol will be presented to Clark by Congressman Bob Wilson.

Money Given To COMBO

City Councilmen tentatively have approved expenditure of $150,000 from room tax revenues for support of 10 cultural organizations through COMBO in the coming fiscal year. The action came during a budget hearing May 26.

Final action on next year's city budget will take place the last week of June, City Manager Walter Hahn said.

COMBO — the Combined Arts and Education Council of San Diego County — last year received $100,000 from city room tax revenues for support of its eight member groups.

The council acknowledged that COMBO has brought more efficient, businesslike operation to its member organizations. Councilman Allen Hitch said COMBO does the city a great service by screening its beneficiary groups — a task which used to fall to the City Council when separate appeals for funds were made by the individual cultural groups.

ROTC Parents' Club Eyed At Mount Miguel

The Mount Miguel ROTC program has announced plans to form an ROTC parents' club.

Brainchild of Mt. Miguel Principal Melvin Grant and ROTC Commander Col. Donald Grey, the club will be comparable to the Boosters' Club and the Music Parents' Club.

According to Grey, the club is expected to provide moral support for youngsters enrolled in the school's Reserve Officers Training Corps. Grey added that, with a group of willing parents behind the program, it will be more desirable.

The parents' club is also expected to provide transportation for some of the cadets during extra curricular activities such as the recent field trip to Miramar Naval Air Station.

As with the Boosters' Club and the Music Parents' Club, parents in the ROTC Club will devote time, effort, materials, and money in building the ROTC program at Mt. Miguel.

One of the first projects of the club, according to Grey, could be a vitally needed 10-point indoor rifle range where cadets could get target practice. Grey added that the range could also benefit the entire community, as it could be used for hunter safety tests, junior rifle clubs, and local Boy Scout troops.

The need for the parents' club became evident this year when enrollment in the ROTC program swelled to over 100 cadets. When the program was first organized at the local school just 13 boys were enrolled.

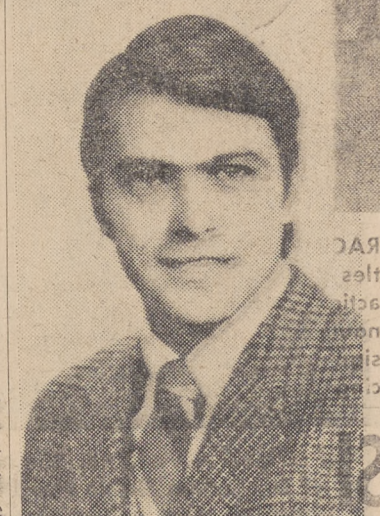

"The addition of a parents' club would make the now-successful ROTC program into an even bigger one," Grey said.

Two College Students Win Flying Ratings

Two Southwestern College Aeronautics students have earned advanced flying ratings as part of their training under the current program at the college, it was announced by Richard Brammen, Aeronautics instructor.

Ron Farley earned a certified flight instructor license and Bob Rugaber received a commercial pilot license.

Students who earned their private pilot's licenses, are Bob Raczkowski, Mark Beach, amp, Fat Pope, Jim Stevens, and Dennis McIntosh. Those who qualified for a student pilot license are Manuel Mariona, Victor Herrra, Arturo Santiago and Mike Traupel.

The Aeronautics Program at Southwestern offers a broad range of courses in the aeronautics profession. All the necessary academics are offered to support each phase of flying. Ground school training is emphasized for students who are working on their pilot's license. Actual flight training is given by authorized pilot training schools, and is at the student's own expense. College credit is allowed for flight training that is monitored by a member of the Aeronautics staff.

The college recently acquired "Old Blue", a flight simulator, and students can take limited training in the simulator right in the classroom. The college also offers an open-end course in Private Pilot Ground School, in the evening, and students can register by attending class in Room 541.

Stock Car Racing Given Extension At Cajon Track

RACING EXTENDED — Don Keely, left, battles Russ Bullen in recent Cajon Speedway action. Officials of the El Cajon track announced over the weekend that they have signed an agreement which will allow racing to continue through October 9. Although officials of the speedway previously announced that they would not sign the agreement, which held that the track would not seek a further extension for auto racing, terms were agreed to "for the good of racing," a spokesman said.

Season To Run Through October 9

All is quiet on the front. At least for the moment, a six-month battle over the future of auto racing at Cajon Speedway has been settled, with the County Board of Supervisors "winning" the battle.

Last year, Cajon Plaza, Inc., operator of the 3/8 mile paved oval, was rejected in its bid to renew a 5-year sub-lease of the track. The old sub-lease allowed operation of the track through May 31, 1971.

The rejection of the routine extension of the sub-lease was made by the Board of Supervisors because of alleged complaints of noise and dust by neighboring residents of the area.

Super stock races, however, started as usual in April, although only nine racing dates were on the schedule. The El Cajon Stock Car Racing Association then started a battle to win an extension of the sub-lease to allow racing to continue through October 9.

It was expected that if the racing association would make efforts to secure a new location for racing, supervisors would allow the current season to be completed.

The racing association then searched for a new track, and after several alternatives were considered, including building a new track, the South Bay Speedway near Brown Field emerged as the best potential location.

Last month, supervisors considered the efforts of the association and agreed to extend the season, attaching two stipulations to the agreement.

The first stipulation was that autos raced at the speedway be equipped with mufflers to keep down the noise.

The second stipulation was the stopper. It required operators of the track to sign an agreement not to seek, at any time, a new sub-lease or an extension of any sub-lease, at Cajon Speedway.

Operators of the track refused to sign the agreement, and association officials argued that a great deal of expense would be needed to meet the muffler requirement.

As the May 31 deadline approached, racing association officials, track officials, and county officials met, and supervisors, with the exception of Henry Boney, voted to drop the muffler stipulation, but operators of the track still refused to sign the "consent-to-extension" agreement.

At last, late last Friday morning, officials of the track signed the agreement "for the good of racing," extending racing at the track through October 9.

Next year, presumably, racing will switch to the South Bay Speedway, a dirt oval now used primarily for motorcycle racing during the afternoon.

The area around the South Bay Speedway is less populated than the Cajon Speedway area.

'Hello Dolly' Scratched

Gordon Hilker, Producer for "Starlight Musicals at the Zoo" which are staged by United States International University's Center for the Performing Arts, 350 Cedar St., announced a change in program for the forthcoming 1971 season.

"The King and I", Rodgers and Hammerstein's charming adventure-romance of old Siam has been chosen as the third show of the outdoor musicals which are presented each summer in Wegforth Bowl in the San Diego Zoo. Previously, "Hello, Dolly!" had been announced.

KEEP HOPPING — Assistant football coach Harold Stratton, at left, keeps Mount Miguel football recruits hopping in agility drills at the school. Spring football workouts were started at the school last week with 90-minute agility drills and conditioning exercises under the supervision of Dwight Morris, who was named earlier this year to coach the team next year. Morris, who teaches at Granite Hills in the mornings, has been at Mount Miguel afternoons to supervise the program.

Pads Open Series With Montreal

When the Padres and the Expos open a four-game series tomorrow night at San Diego, the expected comparisons between the two clubs again will be provoked.

And in a team-to-team match-up, the Padres come out far on top.

Since their formation in December 1968, the Padres and the Expos have met 24 times, with San Diego enjoying a handsome 14-10 edge in victories.

And although the clubs divided their 12 engagements last season, the Padres outplayed their Montreal rivals by a wide margin.

San Diego enjoyed a 64-44 advantage in runs scored, 16-10 superiority in home runs and achieved a .263 batting average compared to Montreal's .232.

Four of the San Diego defeats were by one-run while Padre pitchers twice tossed shutouts against the Expos.

Tickets for all weekend games against the Expos are available now at the Padre Stadium ticket windows that open at 10 a.m. daily or at Ticketron outlets located throughout San Diego County.

Pitchers Highlight Action In Little League Play

Veteran Rex Jenner and rookie Troy Keogh both flashed outstanding pitching performances to highlight last week's action in Lemon Grove Little League Major division play.

Jenner, 12-year-old right-hander for Lemon Grove Lath and Plaster, twirled five innings of no-hit ball and ended with a two-hit 6-1 victory over Murphy Plumbing.

His effort gave his team a split in the series as Murphy took the opener 5-4. Lath and Plaster has a 3-9 record while Murphy is 5-5.

Jenner didn't issue a walk and fanned six. Center fielder Richard Herrera supplied the swat with a home run and two singles as Plaster scored three in the fourth and three more in the fifth to put it out of reach.

Murphy Plumbing's win was helped by outfielder Craig Leonetti's two circuit clouts, three hits by Bruce Franks and two each by Tom

Del Mar Futurity Set For Infield Grass

DEL MAR — An impressive lineup of 207 two-year-olds have retained eligibility status for the 24th running of the famed Del Mar Futurity, which will be presented at seven and one-half furlongs on the infield grass course for the first time this summer, it was disclosed by Thomas M. Hamilton, president of the Del Mar Thoroughbred Club.

The seaside course opens its 32nd season on July 28, operating 43 days through Sept. 15, the latter being the date of the Futurity renewal.

For its previous 23 presentations the Futurity has been at six furlongs on the main dirt track. The switch to the grass at the longer distance was made with the objective of making the fixture more prestigious and definitive.

Current value of the stake is $87,440. This amount includes $60,000 added by the Del Mar Thoroughbred Club, plus fees from 287 original nominations and 207 of that number kept eligible last May 1. With the normal expectancy of supplemental nominations plus starting and entering fees, the race should total well in excess of $100,000.

New Football Program Underway at Mt. Miguel

Spring football workouts have started at Mount Miguel High School, which is nothing new — it happens every year at about this time.

There is something new going on at the school, however. There are a lot of youngsters participating this year, and even more are expected to join in when school re-opens in September.

Dwight Morris, a transplanted football coach from Granite Hills, is running the program, although he still is officially a Granite Hills teacher.

Morris was named earlier this year to head the Mt. Miguel football program next year, replacing Ben Cipriani. Morris teaches at Granite Hills in the morning, and comes to the local campus afternoons to supervise spring drills.

Season Opener Set Against San Fernando

Bob Gallagher, a Mt. Miguel senior, with a big bat, is working out in left field for the La Mesa Collegians baseball club, general manager Tom Lean said this week.

Lean said his pitching staff looks outstanding so far this year. The Collegians have been strengthened down the middle by the acquisition of Mike Coronado at short and his older brother Danny at second base.

The first exhibition game, Lean said, will be Sunday in San Fernando. League play opens at Helix High School at 7:30 June 12 against National City.

Nobody is expecting any miracles from Morris, but the program is completely different than it has been in recent years. For a starter, the program won't be all work and no play.

"We know that playing football is a lot of hard work, but we want to show the kids that it can be a lot of fun, too," Morris said.

So far, the concept has proven itself pretty well. Over 100 youngsters are out for spring drills, and they are not the same size as they were last year.

Last year, the biggest man on the team weighed in at 165 pounds. Morris predicts that this year's offensive line will average 200 pounds.

With good size, a team can be built. It might not win the league title every year, but it will be a football team. As it stacks up now, Grossmont will win the title next year, with three other teams confident of finishing in the top four, leaving four teams, including Mt. Miguel, that will be shooting for fifth place.

Shopping Center Shocks Luigi's With Run In Bottom Of Seventh

Third place Spring Valley Shopping Center put a damper on Luigi's Restaurant's chances of an undefeated season last week when Luigi's dropped a 7-6 decision to Shopping Center.

The win for Shopping Center gave the team a 6-2 mark, a game and a half in back of first place Luigi's, with an 8-1 record. Second place H & S Martinizing is a game out of first with a 7-2 mark.

Russ Palser started on the mound for Luigi's, and gave up six runs in the six innings he worked, but exited after six with the score knotted. Bobby Conroy came in to pitch the seventh and was tabbed for the losing run.

In other action, Martinizing blasted Kelton Homes, 12-4, and was rained out in a second game with Kelton.

Arnold and Company rocked Jackson Supply, 16-1 on a two-hitter by Mike Spitz, and Al's Electric blanked Spring Valley Kiwanis, 7-0 on a three-hitter by Jeff Thorne.

In intermediate action, Cecil's Hancock continued to roll on, getting a 16-13 decision over Art's Lumber. The win left Cecil's with an 8-0 mark, good for a game and a half lead over second place Mary Browne Realtor.

Mary Browne kept pace with an easy 16-6 win over hapless Oscar's Drive In. In the only other game played, it was North Island Test Line blasting last place Colorama TV, 19-8.

In the minor league things are beginning to get pretty tight, as four teams are within a half-game of each other at the top of the standings.

Bob's Window Cleaners and Spring Valley Post Office are tied for the lead, but Colwell Insurance and Pat's Rentals are tied for third place and breathing down the leaders' necks.

Spring Valley Post Office beat Colwell Insurance, 9-6, to stay tied with Bob's Windows, which knocked off Tea Pot Inn, 12-6.

Meanwhile, Pat's Rentals, making an eleventh hour bid for laurels, beat Jim Nocoll's Racers, 6-3, to move into striking distance.

In the only other game, it was Loyal Order of the Moose knocking off the USS Prairie Pirates in an 11-10 heartstopper.

The minor league standings now show Bob's Windows and S.V. Post Office knotted for the lead with 6-2 records, with Pat's Rentals and Colwell Insurance tied for third with identical 6-3 marks.

Wards Wins Two Games, Keeps Lead

Montgomery Ward won a pair of games last week to remain atop the standings in the Spring Valley Pony League, while second place Big Bear Market kept pace with two wins.

Montgomery Ward opened play with a 12-2 shellacking of last place State Farm Insurance, with Al Salazar and Pat Rhodes blasting home runs for the winners, and Mike McGowan adding three hits in three tries.

The following day, it was Big Bear getting into the action with a 9-1 romp over third-place Farmer's Center. Tom Lubie belted a four-bagger for the winners.

On the next day, Wards was back on the field, this time with a 5-0 shutout over Farmer's Center. Big Bear kept pace with a 4-1 decision over Golden Bowl the next day. J. P. Koval notched a no-hitter for Big Bear, fanning 15 batters.

In the only other game played, it was Farmer's Center getting the nod over State Farm Insurance, 4-0, as Vince Najera and R. D. Reuchitt combined for a no-hitter.

Lionettes Win Last Three Games To Nail Down Bobby Sox Flag

The final first-half standings were announced last week by the Lemon Grove Bobby Sox, with the Lions Club Lionettes coming from behind in the last two weeks to claim the flag.

The Lionettes, with two games to play in the final week of action, were down in third place in the standings, but won both games and a third playoff affair for the flag.

In their first game, the Lionettes did away with the Lemon Grove Boosters Angelottes, 14-3 on a fine pitching effort by Loraina Byrd. The win tied the Lionettes for first place with the Quota Club Migets and the Severin Realty Orioles, who were to square off the following day.

In a wild affair, it was the Pitcher Debbie Sullivan retired the side with a strike-out and two infield outs to claim the win.

The following day, the Lionettes, then in second place, teed off on the Associated Engineers Syngers for 42 runs and the win that tied them for first place with the Migets.

In the playoff game between the Migets and the Lionettes, Gina Giacinto took the mound for the Lionettes, holding the explosive Migets to a shutout, collecting ten strike-outs and four walks. With slick infield play by the Lionettes, no Miget managed to get past second base.

The Lionettes, meanwhile, struck in the fourth frame, for three tallies, and added a pair of scores in the fifth inning to provide Miss Giacinto with all the support she needed, enroute to her 5-0 win.

In the minor league, The Catholic Daughters Cherubs knocked off the LG Beauty College/Thomas Disposal Stylis, 14-6, to claim the pennant, while the Nalco Plumbing Pipers blasted the LG Orthodontics Smilers, 16-3 to take second place. The Stylis finished third with a 6-4 mark.

ON A CLEAR DAY — Lower Otay Reservoir is spread out below visitors to this popular County park. Equipped with camping facilities, picnic tables, and barbecues, children's play area and dance pavilion, Lower Otay County Park offers real "get-away-from-it-all" atmosphere.

Parks, Recreation Space To Grow Scarce Within Ten Years

"If you want to take the family on a picnic in 1980, pack your lunch the night before and make an early start. There may be only one picnic table for every three families looking for one," warns Cleatus Gardner, San Diego County Director of Parks and Recreation.

Or, if you now own a boat and rent a marina slip, consider getting a 20-year lease. A survey by the State Department of Parks and Recreation predicts demand for marina spaces in San Diego County within an hour's driving time will increase more than 200 a year.

San Diego County population by 1990 will grow by a million more people. A steadily shorter workweek, growing incomes and longer paid vacations increase the demand for recreation facilities almost one and a half times as fast as the population grows.

With urban development in California gobbling up 120 acres a day, an exhausting trek from filled park to filled park to find a green corner under a tree could easily become a reality. Intense competition for land and the accompanying price spiral emphasize the urgency of finding and acquiring land as soon as possible for recreation and open space.

San Diego County is one of those few fortunate areas where the needs of the future for recreational space are recognized.

Park planning is proceeding ahead of explosive urban development.

The County General Plan for 1990 envisions 37 regional parks covering more than 41,000 acres. Of these, 18 are developed, nearly developed, or owned but not developed, including three city parks — Balboa, Mission Bay, and Miramar Reservoir — and two State parks — Palomar and Torrey Pines. The General Plan pinpoints sites for the others.

Several years of planning went into choosing the sites. Wherever possible, a regional park is located within easy driving time of each projected urban area. Adequate space is included to meet the basic recreational need of at least 15 acres of land for every 1000 projected 1990 residents. Shifts in recreational emphasis were considered in order to balance active and passive recreation facilities in proportion to probable demand.

"Parks don't just grow," even after their sites are chosen," says Ed Moses, San Diego County Director of Parks Development. "Planning, acquisition, and full development of a park site requires from 10-20 years. Federal, state, county, and city park and recreation departments are constantly analyzing, predicting, coordinating, and working toward the recreation needs of the future."

Recently 10,000 questionnaires were mailed out to County residents to further determine what recreational needs are currently being met, where demands will increase, what kind of environment County residents want. The survey is part of an intensive park implementation study now under way in the County.

The Board of Supervisors has authorized engaging two consulting firms to work with County agencies and representatives from the cities of San Diego, Carlsbad, and Oceanside, which have proposed regional parks within their boundaries, in preparing the study. The team is also working closely with the State of California Department of Parks and Recreation and the U. S. Forest Service.

The study will include a complete analysis of each park site as to usability and surrounding land use. A park isn't merely open space; it affects the land around it. Management of its resources must be coordinated with other resource management in the same region.

The study will survey each site to plan carefully for the maximum use of every square foot of the park area and the best overall type of park.

"For instance, Heise park, now nearing completion, is designed to be a woodland experience," explains Moses. "The site is exceptional in its natural beauty; the wilderness environment will appeal to many people. We'll try to preserve the natural feeling as closely as possible."

Dinner Program Set Tomorrow

Tomorrow evening is "Community Night" at the Lemon Grove Youth Center, with an "all-you-can-eat" spaghetti dinner kicking off the program.

Following the dinner, which will be from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., will be Donna Davis, of San Diego State College, leading a folk song program.

The dinner is open to the public at 75 cents for those over 16 and 25 cents for those under 16. All proceeds will go toward the purchase of recreational equipment and arts and crafts supplies for the center.

Results Of Questionnaire Given By Van Deerlin

WASHINGTON — J. Edgar Hoover should be retired, Lt. William Calley was denied justice by his court-martial and President Nixon faces an uphill fight to win re-election in 1972, according to a survey of his constituents by Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-San Diego.

Nearly half — 49.1 percent — favored legislation to withdraw all U. S. forces from Indochina by the end of this year, while 40.2 percent were opposed and the remaining 10.7 percent undecided.

Constituents were asked to comment on these and other issues in a questionnaire circulated by Van Deerlin last month to postal patrons in his 37th District. So far, more than 14,000 replies have been received, and a final tabulation will be sent to constituents who asked for it after all the returns are in.

By a 3-to-2 margin, district residents who expressed an opinion think F.B.I. director Hoover, now 76, ought to be removed from the spot he has occupied for the past 47 years — with 53.3 percent saying he should be retired, 36.6 percent that he should stay and 10.1 percent reporting themselves undecided.

The life sentence handed Lt. Calley was opposed by a margin of more than 2-to-1; 57.9 percent did not feel justice was done in the court-martial while only 26.8 percent thought that it was. Another 15.2 percent were uncertain.

President Nixon, who carried the 37th District by 2,767 votes over Hubert Humphrey in 1968, is expected to win a second term next year by only 39.7 percent of those responding. Another 47.9 percent did not think Mr. Nixon will be re-elected and 12.4 percent had no opinion.

Of greatest surprise to Van Deerlin was the decisive plurality of voters who felt Congress was right in abandoning the supersonic transport (SST). Major components for the plane were to have been supplied by the Rohr Corp. in Chula Vista.

Despite the SST's economic implications for this aerospace community, the decision to kill the project was endorsed by 48.4 percent and opposed by 40.5 percent, with the final 11.1 percent not having an opinion. (Van Deerlin cast a pro-SST vote in Congress.)

Opinion was most heavily weighted in favor of an eventual ban on the sale of new cars that fail to meet anti-pollution standards. Such a prohibition, "to help achieve clean air," was supported by 87.3 percent, opposed by 8.4 percent, with 4.2 percent declining to state a position.

Van Deerlin's constituents were almost as strong in their opposition to legalizing the sale and possession of marijuana, opposed by 76.2 percent, and favored by only 17 percent, with the remaining 6.8 percent undecided.

While Calley, the best-known Vietnam veteran, apparently enjoys widespread sympathy in the 37th District, the Administration seems to have opened a wide credibility gap in reporting on the war.

In response to the question, "Do you feel this Administration tells the truth about the war?" Only 21.8 percent said "yes," 59.7 percent said "no," and 18.4 percent were uncertain.

A multiple-choice question on Selective Service drew mixed response, with 32.1 percent voting for an all-volunteer military force, 29.9 percent calling for retaining the draft but ending college deferments, 16.7 percent saying young men should be allowed to fill their national service obligation with other-than-military service, 15.9 percent preferring the present draft lottery system and 5.2 percent offering other solutions.

The reaction to President Nixon's income maintenance plan was narrowly divided. The proposal to establish guaranteed minimum incomes was favored by 34.6 percent and opposed by 34.3 percent. Another 12.4 percent were undecided and 19.1 percent indicated they "don't know about it."

National health insurance, covering all Americans regardless of age or income, was supported by 38.9 percent, opposed by 50.7 percent, with 10.4 percent undecided.

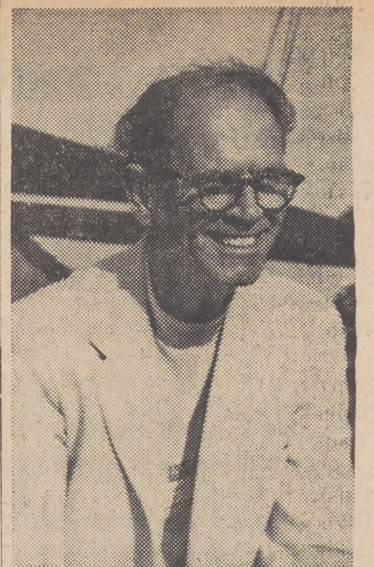

Nearly three-fifths of the respondents — 59.5 percent — favored the imposition of wage-price controls, to combat inflation. Another 11.5 percent were undecided and 29 percent opposed to the use of these controls.

Congress has opened hearings on "no-fault" auto insurance, under which victims would be compensated by their own insurers no matter who was to blame for an accident. The "no-fault" approach, now being tested in Massachusetts, was supported by 55.3 percent, opposed by 30.5 and 13.8 percent registered "no opinion."

There was also support for increased contact with Communist China. While 33.6 percent opposed any relaxation of our present China policy, a greater number, 48.4 percent, wanted to open diplomatic relations and 42.2 favored more trade with mainland China.

Mark Twain said it: "I never worry about what I eat. I just put the foods in my stomach and let them fight it out."

WINNER — Among the winners in the third annual Spring Invitational Art Show at Rancho California was Robert Landry of Lemon Grove.

The competitive exhibit of 50 artists was judged, by public ballot during the two-day outdoor show which was sponsored by Chriswood Gallery. Attendance at the show topped the 15,000 record last Spring.

CALL IN — Sheriff's Deputy Richard Rabell, seated, goes through radio-telephone procedure for Mark Leonetti, a 16-year-old Mt. Miguel student who has just completed a tour on the Sheriff's new Ride-Along program. The program is proving successful in the youth authority communication gap. Students are assigned to a four-hour tour daily.

High School Students Here OK Cops In Sheriff's 'Ride-Along' Program

By Max Goodwin

"I didn't know until now that cops did anything but 'bust' people."

That is one of the reactions of local high school youths to the S.D. County Sheriff's new Ride-Along program.

In the program sheriff's deputies take along a male high school student in the patrol car for a four hour tour starting at 2 p.m.

Youngsters are present for all normal operations the officer performs during those hours except those in which bodily injury may result. He is not permitted to be present at family quarrels.

Mark Leonetti, a 16-year old junior at Mt. Miguel rode with Officer Richard W. Rabell on one of the tours last week. Leonetti, the son of a computer programmer and who lives at 1777 Clencoe ave. was highly impressed with the "professional performance" of Officer Rabell.

"I had the idea that there would be a lot of blood, guts and glory but instead I learned there was a lot of routine, hard work involved," he said. "A lot of people, especially high school students, have this misconception."

Because youngsters think of cops as "the establishment" we'll let Mark tell it as he found it.

"We were on Broadway near College ave. and we saw an old car parked in front of a liquor store. It had three radio antennas. Officer Rabell wondered aloud if one antenna was attached to a police monitoring radio. 'If it is we ought to find out why', Rabell said.

Auto Chase

"While we were talking about it a car without the '71 registration sticker passed. When our car flashed its red light the driver took off at 65 miles an hour. We caught him as he turned in his driveway on Veronica ave. in San Diego. We radio'd to San Diego police and Officer Rabell put the driver under arrest for reckless driving. The driver tried to get the officer in a quarrel."

"A neighbor came over and cursed the officer but Officer Rabell didn't answer back. He's got a good head on his shoulders."

"When the S.D. police came the reckless driver said flat out that he wasn't going to go. The police tried to reason with him. After about a half hour, the man got in the San Diego police car. There was no force of any sort on the man except conversation."

"The rest of the day was routine. We investigated a burglary and picked up some other people on '70 stickers but we were working all the time. No wonder Officer Rabell was tired looking," Mark said.

No Adverse Criticism

Sheriff's Deputy Ted Kohl, who is local juvenile co-ordinator, said the ride-along program is open to any high school youth whether he has been in trouble or not. "They can have long hair, or dress in levis, but they must be clean," he said. Each rider is asked to turn in a written report. Of about 20, all answered "no" to the question "Do you have any criticism you wish to make?"

Most youngsters asked for another tour. Mark not only asked for a second tour but said that he is now considering law enforcement as a profession.

Officer Rabell said he had some reservations about the program when it was announced. Now he does not.

"I felt that I couldn't properly perform my duties with a youth in the car. But these youngsters are smart and enthusiastic. I am still concerned that a seemingly routine assignment may become hazardous. The youngsters ask intelligent questions and nearly all of them volunteer the information that they had wide misconceptions regarding police work," he said.

Kohl said the program is closing the gap of understanding between students and police better and more rapidly than it had been anticipated. "There are some youngsters who will be anti-authority for a long time but most of those we've had as riders go back to their peers at school and are telling it like it is," he said.

No one could want for more than that.
